This list was compiled by the PBS television series The Great American Read. The results were announced on Oct. 23, 2018.

Over the course of eight episodes, The Great American Read explored the power of reading through the prism of the country's 100 best-loved novels. The list was based on an initial survey of about 7,000 Americans, with an advisory panel of experts organizing the list.

More than 4 million votes were cast in the six-month-long contest that pitted the 100 titles against one another. Books that were published as a series counted as a single entry.
